

A BRIEF MEETING

Of Governing Board Of The City

ENGINE ONE TO HAVE AD- DITIONAL DRIVER

Telephone Company Asks Permission To Erect More Poles

REPORTS MADE ON TWO CLAIMS PRESEN- TED TO THE COUNCIL

There was a brief meeting of the city council on Monday evening, called by Mayor Hackett principally for the purpose of approving bills and payrolls. Items under these heads amounting to $4,455.78 were reported as approved by the city auditor and the bills were ordered paid. Every member of the council answered the call of the roll. After the records of the last meeting had been read and accepted, a communication from Sergt. Edward E. Snow was read. This requested the city to place a memorial stone in the proposed Pilgrim monument on Cape Cod. The communication was laid on the table.

A revised fire department ordinance was passed, amending the ordinance approved by the city council some time ago, by providing for two drivers for engine No. 1, instead of one.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company petitioned for the right to erect fourteen new poles. Two are to be placed on Rutland street, between Islington road and Melbourne street and twelve on Middle road from the end of the present line to the residence of E. S. Johnson. The petition was presented to the superintendent of wires to report.

The bonds of Hon. John W. Emery and Judge Edward H. Adams as sinking fund commissioners were accepted.

Councilman Cater, for the committee on claims, reported the claim of A. P. Wendell and Company for $32, for supplies furnished last year. He recommended that the bill be paid and the recommendation was accepted.

Councilman Payne, to whom was referred the bill of John W. Davis for $3.75 for extra service in the care of clocks, reported that Mr. Davis had withdrawn the bill.

On motion of Councilman Boynton,

the council adjourned to the call of the Mayor.

ADJOURNED SESSION

Of January Term of Superior Court
Convened in This City

The adjourned January session of superior court convened in this city today (Monday), Judge Robert G. Pike of Dover presiding.

The docket was read and sixty cases were found awaiting disposition. Most of them were marked to go over, but a few will be heard here.

The opening case will be that of Edward Arnold Fisher, architect, of Boston against Rudolph Liebrock, Marvin and Batchelder will appear for Fisher and Page and Bartlett for Liebrock.

Another important case is the petition of Dr. Robert O. Treadwell and his wife for the discontinuance of the trust in the Treadwell estate. The case has been assigned to be tried on Saturday.

IN SMALL CRAFT

Fishermen Were Adrift For Many Hours

BLOWN TO SEA DURING SUNDAY'S GALE

Their Boat Was Filled With Water Several Times

FINALLY LANDED AT THE JERRY'S POINT LIFESAVING STATION

As thrilling an experience as anyone would care to undergo was that of three fishermen from Portland, Sunday night and Monday, adrift in a small boat off this coast. That the men finally reached shore was directly due to the fact that a lantern in the hands of a patrolman of the Jerry's Point lifesaving station guided them.

The three men, William Lathrop, Fred Dane and Harry Johnson, left Long Island, Portland Harbor, on Sunday for a day's fishing in a twenty-three foot naphtha boat. Caught by the gale which came up during the afternoon, they were blown to sea, the engine of their boat suddenly refusing to work at the time when it was most needed.

The little craft was driven by the gale miles southeast of Boone Island. Although the men attempted to use oars, they were absolutely powerless to make headway against the wind and were at the mercy of the gale and the sea.

Off Boone Island one of the oars was lost and then a small sail was hoisted, which did little more at first than steady the boat.

The craft was repeatedly filled with water by the heavy seas breaking over it, which made almost constant bailing necessary. This was, however, more a blessing than otherwise, for the vigorous exercise kept them warm.

All day Monday the little boat was buffeted by the seas, but toward night it approached the land. The coming of darkness, unfortunately, forced the men to keep off the shore, fearing to attempt a landing at night. Suddenly one of them sighted a lantern and a loud hail brought a response from a patrolman of the lifesaving station at Jerry's Point. By him, the three nearly exhausted men were given directions which enabled them to reach their boat.

They were at once conducted to the Jerry's Point station, where they were provided with dry clothing and given food. They were completely drenched and suffering from the effects of exposure, but their condition was not such as to require medical aid.

This (Tuesday) morning the men came to Portsmouth and made arrangements for the repairing of their engine. Their loss will be a serious one, for they were forced to abandon a dory and all their trawls and gear were swept away.

That the crew of the lifesaving station was able to give the men such good care is largely due to the Woman's National Relief Association of New York. This organization sends to the various lifesaving stations supplies of clothing and medicines and by its efforts lifesaving crews are enabled to do much for the comfort of shipwrecked persons temporarily in their care.

BEN HUR ILLUSTRATED

Lecture of Great Interest in Middle Street Church

The two lectures recently given by Rev. Nathan Bailey in the Middle Street Baptist Church awakened so much interest and were so well received that the citizens of Portsmouth will be glad to learn that Mr. Bailey has been engaged for another lecture, to be given in the same church on Wednesday evening, Feb. 27. The subject of this lecture will be "Ben Hur Illustrated."

Ben Hur has made a study of this popular book for the purpose of presenting its most interesting scenes by the aid of a powerful stereopticon. He has secured a set of slides which are said to be the finest in the country. I was assured last week in Boston by Mr. Bosworth, a competent slide maker, that they were the finest slides ever made.

The book itself has delighted thousands of readers, its thrilling scenes have been presented on the stage in many of the theatres of our great cities and the lecture of Mr. Bailey, with the beautiful views shown upon the screen by Mr. Traflet's powerful stereopticon cannot fail to be of intense interest to both old and young.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the young men of the Baptist Guild. Admission will be, by ticket, but the tickets are free to all applicants up to the limit of the capacity of the church. A special request is printed upon each ticket, asking the holder to bring an offering of silver. By this plan a large audience can have the benefit of the lecture and the honor of every ticket holder will gladly respond to the reasonable request.

The work of the Baptist Guild has been going on for some five years and has proved a great blessing to our young people. A reading room has been furnished with papers and magazines. A library of 400 volumes has been gathered, very many popular addresses upon various subjects have been secured and entertainments of much excellence have been given.

The one of last Thursday evening was of such superior merit that by popular request, it is to be repeated in the chapel on Thursday evening of this week. In order to make more prominent their work and add to the good and helpful influences of our city, the young men have inaugurated this plan of free tickets to a popular lecture, trusting the generosity of our citizens to aid them in this laudable undertaking.

WANT ANOTHER TRAIN

Newburyport Asks for One Between
Boston and Portsmouth

Newburyport people are asking the Boston and Maine railroad for another train to run between Boston and Portsmouth.

The petition, in part, asks that a train leave Boston at 4.45 p. m., and run as an accommodation train as far as Wenham, and that the train now leaving Boston at 4.45 be started at five p. m. and run express to Wenham, stopping at Ipswich and reaching Newburyport at 5.57, as at present. From there it would proceed to Portsmouth. This would shorten the running time from Boston to Newburyport fifteen minutes and would be a great convenience to many, as it would give them fifteen minutes more in Boston without loss at this end.

PORT OF PORTSMOUTH

Arrivals At and Departures From Our Harbor Feb. 18

Arrived

Steamer Ixia (British), Rattray, Barcelona, Spain, Jan. 20 via Huelva, with 2,535 tons of copper ore for Portland, Me., short of coal.

Sailed

United States revenue cutter Gresham, Carden, Portland, and returned on account of storm.

Wind northeast, fresh.

Telegraphic Shipping Notes

Chatham, Feb. 18—Passed north, tug Monocacy, Philadelphia, towing barges Oak Hill for Portsmouth, Monitor for Boston and Pocopson for Newburyport (was in company with tug Valley Forge, which lost barge Ghard of her tow at Hightland Light; some anxiety felt for safety).

TOOK ON COAL

The Steamer Ixia Received Fuel at This Port

The steamer Ixia, which came into the harbor out of coal on Monday, was brought up to Appledore wharf at low water slack by the tug M. Mitchell; Davis and Portsmouth and today (Tuesday) the A. W. Walker firm supplied her with fifty tons of coal.

The steamer departed immediately after taking on the fuel for Portland.

The Kearsarge boys will have a great time Thursday evening.

IXIA UNDOUBTEDLY HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Various Paragraphs Of Social And Personal Interest

GOSSIP OF A DAY COLLECTED BY OUR CORRESPONDENT

Kittery, Feb. 19.
It is believed here that the Stager Ixia, which barely made port here Monday with her coal gone, must have come very near bottom when approaching this harbor from the eastward. When seen off York Harbor at 1.30, she was less than a mile from shore and a straight course to Kitt's Rock bell buoy would take her unpleasantly near to shoal ground.

There was a heavy sea and every shoal spot was breaking. This was clearly a case where ignorance was bliss.

The Ixia is a green painted steamer with two masts and one stack. The stack is black with a broad red band, on which a stag, the emblem of the line, is painted. On her last trip to this country the Ixia brought a cargo of salt from Torrevieja, Spain, to Gloucester.

Constitution Lodge, No. 77, Knights of Pythias, will meet this evening at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Kittery Point

A delegation of Naval Lodge of Masons attended the funeral services of William A. Bowman at the Free Baptist Church on Monday afternoon.

Fred S. Wendell of Portsmouth was a visitor in town on Monday. Had the revenue cutter Gresham kept on when she sailed eastward on Monday instead of returning on account of the snow, she would probably have picked up the distressed steamer Ixia. In that case she would have been towed directly to Portland.

Ernest L. Chaney of Portsmouth was in town on Monday.

The fishing fleet went out this morning, although a heavy sea and easterly wind prevailed outside.

FITZGERALD TALKS

And What He Has to Say Is Very Pertinent

Representative Fitzgerald, speaking of the Salzer amendment in the national House of Representatives, declared that the battleship Louisiana, which took the President to Panama, made the trip without a gun in either turret or broadside on it to be fired. He said two armored cruisers had accompanied the ship to protect "this first class battleship against some South American count."

try which might want to kidnap the President."

He declared that the Louisiana is now at Brooklyn navy yard being completed at government expense at a cost of over $300,000 and denied the assertions of the navy department itself that the Louisiana, built at a private shipyard, had been constructed in less time or at less expense than the Connecticut, built at Brooklyn navy yard by the government.

He expressed the belief that the whole truth on this subject is not yet known.

SESSION ENDS

West Derry Superior Court Term
Suspended for a Time

An adjourned session of superior court held in West Derry by Judge Pike, opening on Feb. 5, was concluded on Monday. Attorney Brown, of the firm of Burnham, Brown, Jones and Warren of Manchester was present, and also Edwin B. Weston, Col. J. G. Crawford and G. K. and B. T. Bartlett, as attorneys for respective cases.

The case of Shinnell versus Butrick was brought up again and completed. This was a suit for damages claimed by Shinnell for the bite of a dog owned by Otis Butrick of Auburn. The case was closed and the decision reserved by Judge Pike.

The long drawn out case of Bartlett versus Badohis, in which Bartlett is appearing for the setting aside of the conveyance by the late John B. Morrison of certain property here, upon the claim that he was too old and incompetent to deed away his property, was continued from two weeks ago. Lawyer Crawford appeared for Gadohis and was assisted by Attorney Brown of Manchester. G. K. and B. T. Bartlett appeared for Bartlett.

A good many witnesses were heard and much interesting testimony was offered. The case took up the balance of the day until five o'clock, and then the court adjourned to meet in a week or two at the call of Judge Pike.

But for the fact that the Judge was obliged to be in this city today (Tuesday) the hearing would have been continued into the evening to complete it.

TREATY OF PORTSMOUTH COM- FORT FOR CALIFORNIANS

Following are some recent observations of Representative Shelden of Texas in the national House of Representatives:

"I call upon my nervous fellow citizens of the Pacific coast to remember that although the Japanese could march across Korea and through Manchuria, their legs are entirely too short to wade the Pacific. On our side of the Pacific ocean they have no coaling stations, and ships of war which cross that ocean under their own steam would be comparatively helpless before they could reach the coast of California. Again—and the recollection of this may help our California friends to a night's rest—it should also be remembered that after winning brilliant victories in the greatest battles of all history the Japanese made a treaty of peace, which, if not humiliating, was at best a confession of weakness. No man can believe that the Japanese would have yielded what they did yield at Portsmouth if they had not been physically and financially exhausted. They may have recovered from their physical exhaustion, but it is certain that they have neither paid their debts nor filled their war chests since the Summer of 1905. The statesmen of Japan, who seem to measure up in capacity to those of any other nation, know that a bankrupt country cannot wage war successfully against a wealthy one, particularly under the circumstances which surround this country and theirs. The poverty of Japan and the wealth of the United States both speak for peace."

THE WEATHER FOR TOMORROW

(Special To The Herald)
Washington, Feb. 19—There is a probability of rain or snow on Wednesday, with winds shifting from south to west and falling temperature toward night.

The fifteenth anniversary celebration of Oak Castle, No. 5, Knights of the Golden Eagle, on Wednesday, Feb. 27, will be strictly an order event.

SENATE TO VOTE

On The Reed Smoot Case Tomorrow

THE CHANCES ARE IN FAVOR OF MR. SMOOT

Opposition, However, Is Professing Great Hopefulness

DEMOCRATS FOR POLITICAL REASONS OPPOSE SENATOR

(By New England Press)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The fate of Reed Smoot will be determined tomorrow, when the Senate will vote to determine whether he shall be accepted as the representative of Utah in that body. The indications are that the Senate's vote will be expressive of their confidence in Mr. Smoot. The opposition, however, is carrying the fight to the last ditch and is hopeful that the vote will be against the Utah man.

It takes a two-thirds vote to expel from the United States Senate. As the Senate is nearly two-thirds Republican this means that all the Democrats and half the Republicans would have to vote to turn Smoot out. There is little in the private comment of Senators to indicate that any such degree of opposition to Mr. Smoot as this exists.

If Smoot is unseated it will be because he is a member of the governing body of the Mormon Church. It is alleged by Senators Burrows, Dooliver, Bailey, Pettus and others who would unseat him that by repeated acts he has, as a member of the quorum of the twelve apostles, given aid and support to the hierarchy in its defiance of the laws of his own state and of the general government. It is alleged that he as a member of the inner circle of the apostles has indirectly, if not directly, encouraged polygamy. Many persons have received the impression that Senator Smoot has been guilty of polygamy. But this is entirely erroneous. The fact is that the committee of the Senate which by a vote of seven to five reported in favor of unseating the Senator exonerated him from the charge of polygamy.

The defenders of Senator Smoot submit that as one of the fifteen men constituting the ruling authority of the Mormon Church, he knew that polygamy was practised by some of the officials of the Church, but, they insist, that the influence of Smoot has been steadily in favor of reforms in the Church. It is averred that through his efforts the Church has been brought to a much higher plane.

The political phase of the situation is not without interest. The Democrats assert that the Republican party and the Mormon Church are in alliance in Idaho, Utah and perhaps in other of the Rocky Mountain states, and believing this, most of the Democrats, apparently, intend to vote to unseat Smoot. It has been alleged from time to time that there is an agreement among the Republican and the Mormon leaders that Smoot shall not be unseated. The Republican leaders declare that there is no truth in the story.

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER

Gould Informed Extra Session For Revision Isn't Wanted

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—President Roosevelt today replied to Gov. Gould's tariff petition. There was a conference this morning with the Massachusetts senators, who were shown the text of the letter.

It is known to be brief and probably leans to the suggestion of Senator Crane that as little be said about the tariff issue as possible.

It was stated at the White House this morning Gov. Gould will have to make the letter public, if it is made public at all.

If the people of Massachusetts alone were concerned, the President would have no hesitation in claiming an extra session of Congress on the question.

But he has weighed the sentiments of other senators, and it is very positive in his conviction that it would be absolutely fruitless to call Congress together again.

He has never hesitated on that subject a moment, and has not for a moment thought of an extra session. With those who have discussed the tariff situation with him, the President has used the matter of free trade as an illustration as citing the attitude of the far western states and "I am so grateful for what Warner's Safe Cure did for me that I am pleased to give you my experience. A heavy cold resulted in kidney trouble and my side and back pained me so much that I was unable to be on my feet for several months. The doctor we had was able to give me but little relief, so I told him not to come any more, and began using Warner's Safe Cure. I felt much relief from pain in the course of three weeks, continued to improve all the time. I used eight bottles in all and that effected a complete cure. I feel so relieved and well now that I am like a different woman, and can straighten up now, what I was unable to do a few months ago. Gratefully yours, E. E. also of Democratic Texas as unscrupulously hostile.

The President has also recently said that Congress would probably not revise the tariff should he call an extra session, because outside of a few states there is no strong public sentiment for it.

Senators and members would be in an ugly mood at having to come to Washington and the leaders are strongly organized against revision.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Boston's Big Dog Show

Boston, Mass., Feb. 19.—Hundreds of how-woos will make their howl in Mechanics' Building today at the opening of the twenty-third annual bench show of the New England Kennel Club. Such a turnout of aristocratic canines Boston has never seen before. The exhibits come from many parts of this country and Canada and from Europe and include almost every breed known to the fancier. Pointers and setters, foxhounds and beagles are much in evidence. The Boston terriers naturally lead the entries in point of number, there being about 250 of this breed on display. Irish terriers and Scottish terriers are also numerous. The big dogs, such as the St. Bernards and great Danes, Russian wolfhounds and greyhounds, are likewise well represented. Judging begins soon after the opening today and will be continued until the show comes to a close Friday night.

Philadelphia City Election

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19.—After one of the hottest campaigns in her history Philadelphia will vote today for a mayor, receiver of taxes and other city officials. The alignment of the opposing factions is along the same lines as at the last election, which resulted in a signal victory for the reform forces. The contest is one in which the reform element in both the old parties, united under the banner of the City party, is endeavoring to defeat the old Republican Organization, which has had the management of the city's affairs in its grasp for so many years. William Porter, prominent as lawyer and financier, once minister to Italy and for years prominent in Philadelphia public affairs, is the mayoralty candidate of the City party. The Organization ticket is headed by Congressman John E. Reyburn, while the Democratic candidate for mayor is William C. Bennett.

To Arouse Interest in Missions

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 19.—The international foreign missionary convention for men, the first big gathering of its kind to be held by the Presbyterian church of America, opened in Omaha today and will continue its sessions until Friday. For months past great efforts have been making to interest public men, business men and others in the conference and the result already assured is an attendance that meets the most sanguine expectations of the arrangements committee. Leading missionaries of Persia, India, Korea and other foreign countries are here to address the gathering and tell of the urgent

Seven Drown And One Dies Of Exposure At Sea

Seven sailors drowned and one dead from exposure, one barge ashore one foundered and still another missing, with a possible loss of thirteen lives, is the grim toll of a 65-mile gale at Highland Light Monday.

The barge Alaska foundered when entering the line of breakers, and the crew of the barge were powerless to give aid.

The crew of four men and Capt. Lord are believed to have gone down with the vessel.

The large Belhayres is missing and is believed to have foundered.

Mary Shaw created a fine impression at Music Hall last evening.

MEASURES IN THE KITCHEN

Recipes Varying in Their Terms, It Is Well to Know Both Weights and Measures.

Butter—A cupful of butter is seven and one-half ounces if pressed quite solid. A cupful of melted butter is one-half ounce lighter. It is usually near enough for cooking to call a cupful one-half pound. Butter size of an egg is one and one-half ounces.

Sugar—A level cupful of granulated sugar is seven ounces—two cupfuls is two ounces less than a pound. Although sugar by the grain is heavier than water and will sink instantly, the air spaces between the grains make a cupful weigh less than so much liquid. One-half pound of granulated sugar is a cup rounded up. The powdered sugar that is known as fine granulated weighs the same, icing sugar or flour of sugar is lighter, a cupful is but six ounces. All that can be scooped up in a cup out of a barrel of any grade weighs nine ounces. A level cupful of brown sugar is six ounces. Up in the mountains cake recipes which people have been used fail. It is all because of the sugar. So much sugar cannot be used at great elevations as at sea level, hence the reason for being particular about weights.

Molasses—A cupful of thick molasses weighs 12 ounces—that is three-quarters of a pound—half as much more as equal measure of water and five ounces more than a level cupful of granulated sugar. Thin sirups do not weigh quite so much.

Flour—A level cupful of (patent sifted) flour is four ounces. A cup heaped up with all that can be dipped with it out of a barrel is seven ounces—nearly twice as much as the level. A quart of (sifted) flour just rounded over is one pound.

Bread Crumbs—A cupful of bread is four ounces pressed in rather solid. A pound of bread is a pressed-in quart.

Corn Meal—A cupful of corn meal is five ounces, three rounded cupfuls are a pound, or a pound of corn meal is a little less than a level quart.

Oatmeal—A level cupful of oatmeal is six ounces. All that can be dipped up with a cup weighs seven ounces—nearly one-half pound.

Corn Starch—A level cupful of starch flour or cooking starch is six ounces, the same as cornmeal. All that can be heaped in a cup weighs seven ounces.

Farina—The same as starch.

Rice—A level cupful weighs seven ounces. All that can be heaped in a cup weighs nine ounces.

Light Bread Dough—A rounded cupful is one-half pound.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Yellow soap and whitening, mixed into a thick paste, will temporarily stop a leak as well as solder.

Drain pipes and all places that are sour or impure may be cleansed with lime water or carbolic acid.

Sewing Machine Oil Stains—Rub with lard. Let stand for several hours, then wash with cold water and soap.

A whisk-broom cut so it tapers to a point at one side is the handiest thing for cleaning the corners when sweeping the stairs. One that is just service for its original use is as good as a new one for this purpose.

To Brighten Old Edge Frames.—Take sufficient flour of sulphur to give a golden tinge to one and one-half pints of water, and in this boil four or five bruised onions. Strain off the liquid, and with it, when cold, wash, with a soft brush, any gilding which requires restoring, and when dry it will shine as bright as new.

Solded bobbinet curtains do not need to go into the wash tub if the dirt on them is only the accumulation of everyday grime. Corn meal cleanses them without half the bother of washing and ironing. Place the half of a curtain in a large paper bag, sprinkle a pint of the meal through it, then shake the bag in every direction hard for ten minutes. Then beat out the meal and hang the curtain in the air. If the curtain does not look a good color after one bath of meal, give it a second. Curtains treated in this way do not coarsen and mill up as when they are wet.—Good Literature.

Prune Jelly.

Stew, until just tender, two pounds of French prunes; cool and remove pits; soak one box of granulated gelatin in one pint of cold water until soft, then add three-quarters of a quart of boiling water, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, juice of three lemons; set in pan of ice water and then stir until it commences to thicken; cover the bottom of a deep pan with one-half of an inch thickness of the jelly; set it in a cool place, and when firm, lay in the prunes, and then add the remainder of the jelly. When firm, dip an instant in warm water or wipe the outside with a cloth wrung out of boiling water; and then place a dish over the top; then invert pan, and jelly will slip out; garnish with whipped cream.

Orange Pudding.

Soak one-half box of gelatin in a cupful of cold water. Set the cup in a pan of water to dissolve it. Add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar stir until melted, and mix it with the juice of six large oranges. Let the pulp of the oranges, broken up and minus fiber and seeds, remain in, also a light grating of the orange peel. If liked, substitute the diluted juice of one lemon for two of the oranges, and as soon as it is partly jellied, whip it with the egg beater until it is like beaten egg. Turn into a mould to harden.

SCHOONER AT FAULT

Such the Opinion of the Experts of This City

It is the general opinion in Portsmouth that the blame for the collision between the Joy line steamer Larchmont and the schooner Henry Knowlton should be given to the crew of the schooner.

A veteran seafaring man of this city, who in his day commanded several sailing vessels, says that all published accounts prove that the schooner crew was at fault. The theory is advanced that the helmsman of the schooner was asleep and when he awakened threw his helm the wrong way, the schooner crashing into the Larchmont in consequence.

The courses of the two vessels were such, it is said, that the Knowlton should have easily avoided the steamer.

OGUNQUIT

Ogunquit, Me., Feb. 19.

Charles W. Littlefield of Rhode Island is visiting his father, Moses F. Littlefield, for a few days. Mr. Littlefield is in the insurance business.

Edward Twombly of the Boston and Maine union station at Boston visited relatives in Ogunquit on Sunday.

Some of the Knights of Pythias of this village attended the lodge meeting at Kennebunk Friday night.

Rev. George Dorman of the Christian Church officiated at the funeral of H. H. Hilt on Saturday forenoon. Mr. Hilt had long delivered the Sunday papers here. His body was taken to Sanford for burial.

TO MY VALENTINE FRIEND

I see that some dear friend of mine sends me that valentine To me and I must say Right here I wish to compliment My friend, you're not the one I meant For the valentine only cost a cent, And I know that you would pay More than a cent for a valentine. You'd buy me one of the dollar kind, And then I'll bet you'd change your mind And keep it yourself. Good day. —D. H.

TIME FOR A COMPLETE CHANGE

That the utmost care should be exercised in the selection of steamboat inspectors has been shown so many times that it is a pity that it is necessary to repeat the warning. For many years, political influences have determined appointments, and it is plain that something more than partisan reasons must hereafter exist for the appointment of any man to an inspectorship.

The Larchmont disaster may not be exactly a case in point, but it brings to mind other catastrophes for which careless inspection was directly responsible. Many utterly unworthy steamers have been and are used in passenger traffic and thousands of lives are placed in jeopardy every year. That the number of those lost in the past has been so comparatively small is due only to good fortune.

Inspectors should be required to make occasional trips on passenger steamers and should note not only the condition of the steamer itself but the conduct of its officers and the members of its crew. It is as important that the captain of a steamer should be a capable and trustworthy man as that the steamer itself should be seaworthy.

Steamboat inspection has in the past been far too much a case of trusting to luck and has never been as comprehensive as it ought to be. Some reforms have lately been instituted, but reforms far more sweeping are demanded. Conditions which have existed and which to a certain extent still exist are intolerable in an enlightened country and every disaster makes the people more determined that such things shall be made as nearly impossible as human care and ingenuity can make them. We should be sure when a vessel is lost at sea that everything was done to prevent wreck and that the disaster could not be averted.

No man should be permitted to command a ship of any kind of whose reliability and of whose courage there is any doubt. No steamer should be permitted to carry passengers which is not absolutely seaworthy in every respect and which is not provided with every safeguard against loss of life. Government inspection should be of the most painstaking character and no man ever ought to be given a position as inspector who is not himself an expert. He should, moreover, be the most conscientious official possible to obtain.

We have looked with easy tolerance upon the careless methods often employed in inspection long enough. It is time for a complete change.

BIRDS' EYE VIEWS

The path is steep
And dark and long,
But over the hill
Lies light and song.

An honest man is the rarest as well as the noblest work of God.

What is wanted is to exclude the dead head from future productions of Salome.

Use every man square until you find he uses you otherwise. Then cut his acquaintance.

If a woman knows a man cares a lot about her, she generally takes pleasure in making him feel like thirty cents.

Mr. Schwab gave his sister a $2,000,000 wedding gift, but many a bride is just as happy without a thousandth part of that amount of coin.

The Lincoln clubs on Lincoln's birthday were conspicuous by their non-activity. It is possible, of course that they were named, not after the President, but after the Nebraskan capital.

Mayor Tom Johnson calls the $32,000,000 gift a bid for the continuation of special privileges for Standard Oil. Isn't he right? Why should the poor suffer to obtain educational privileges for the few?

The manufacturing interests are after Rangeley lakes and the sportsmen are up in arms. It will be generally conceded that the lakes should be preserved, not for sportsmen alone, but as things of beauty which add much to Maine's Summer assets.

OUR EXCHANGES

Youth's End

I have held my life too high,
Spring and harvest, love and laughter,
Smile and sigh.
I should have held it lightly, like a young leaf rent in haste
From the willow in the waste.
A moment in the fingers: then it fluttered, then it fled,
A little flame of red,
To the God-beholding desert where the soundless years go by—
I have held my life too high.

I have held my death too dear,
Shame or honor, peace or peril, pride or fear.
I should have held it softly as the little cloud that flies
When the heron takes the skies.
I should have held it lightly as a passing whisper—"Friend,
Here's the end;
Here the silver cord is loosened and the bowl is broken here!"—
But I held my death too dear.

Woman's Home Companion

The gist of the divorce question is that those who have united to give life to a human being should stay united to give life to a human being should stay united to cherish and to develop that life, according to Professor Felix Adler, as expressed in his conservative discussion of uniform divorce laws in the March Woman's Home Companion. The March Woman's Home Companion also contains
"A Talk on Good Deeds," by Edward Everett Hale. One of the many strong features of the March Companion is a hitherto unpublished drawing by Whistler. The fascination of unlimited wealth is described by Anna Steens Richardson in an article entitled, "The Woman of Millions—How She Spends Her Money."
Another article of direct interest to feminine readers is "What the Chicago Woman's Club Has Done for Chicago," by Bertha D. Knobe. Another article strongly appealing to women, and especially to mothers, is "The Mother and the Growing Boy," by Margaret E. Sangster. The section is headed by "The Domestic Adventurers," a delightful new serial by Josephine Daskam Bacon.

5000 LIVES SAVED YEARLY BY MODERN METHOES IN TREATING CONSUMPTION.

In New York since 1881 there has been a reduction in the death-rate from tuberculosis of 40 per cent; that means an annual saving of some 5,000 lives.

Before a German scientist discovered the germ of this disease, it was considered the visitation of an avenging Providence. Our fathers gave it up as hopeless. Modern methods of treatment, however, have done much toward eradicating the terrible disease.

A noted specialist, whose camp for consumptives in the Pine Woods of Maine has attracted great attention because of the remarkable cures he has effected there, and whose methods have been indorsed by the highest authorities, says his treatment was very simple, consisting of open-air exercise, deep breathing and nourishing food. Every four hours the patient was given one teaspoonful of a mixture of the Pure Virgin Oil from the White Pine Trees, combined with Whiskey and Glycerine, in the following proportions: One-half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine and eight ounces of good Whiskey. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

This treatment strengthened the lungs and healed the bronchial tubes. He claims this formula will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost, and can be easily mixed in your own home.

Inquiry at the prescription department of one of our leading druggists elicited the information that Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—"Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)"—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) which are put out under various names, such as Concentrated Oil of Pine, Pine Balsam, etc. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

Zona Gale, Julia Truitt Bishop, and Mary W. Hastings. The department conducted by Grace Margaret Gould, Fannie Merritt Farmer, Evelyn Parsons, Sam Lloyd and Anna Steens Richardson are unusually interesting. The children's pages contributed by Aunt Janet and Dan Beard offer a pleasing array of good things.

Transatlantic Tales

"On the Eve," the complete drama published in Transatlantic Tales for March, is not only an exceedingly strong piece of work from the artistic point of view, but gives a wonderfully enlightening picture of the present awful conditions in Russia. In it we are shown, by one who knows, the remarkable organization and heroic sacrifice of those who are pouring out their blood for a "free Russia." Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," says: "I read it with intense interest; it is right out of the heart of the furnace. So far as my reading goes, it is the best thing which the present crisis has brought out in Russia."

As the publication and stage production of this tremendous arraignment of present conditions in the oppressed land of the Czar were suppressed by the governments of Europe, the author turned to America, where he has not only found a publisher in Transatlantic Tales, but has arranged for the play's production in a New York Theatre within the next few months.

The magazine has a score of unusual short stories, besides the drama.

The Youth's Companion

The Washington's Birthday number of the Youth's Companion reproduces eight different portraits of George Washington out of the list of more than 800 which are in existence. Besides the familiar drawing from Houdon's bust and the portrait by Gilbert Stuart, the Youth's Companion presents six which are not so well known. One of these, from a painting by Charles W. Peale, is the earliest known representation of Washington's features. He was at the time about forty years old. A still more interesting portrait is the reproduction of the drawing made by Fevre de Saint Memin, a young French artist, in 1798—the last portrait from life that we have. Saint Memin in producing it used an instrument that he called a physionotrace. It enabled him to trace on paper an exact reproduction of the outlines of the face. He afterward filled in the details with crayons. This portrait shows how the first president looked the year before his death.

SIXTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY OF ADELINA PATTI

Adelina Patti, the celebrated operatic singer whose final retirement from public performances was recently announced, was born in Madrid, February 19, 1843. Her parents being Italians. After a course of professional training under her brother-in-law, Maurice Strakosch, the youthful singer made her debut in New York, November 24, 1859. Her first London appearance was made at the Italian Opera House, Covent Garden, May 14, 1861, and so favorable was the impression created that she became at once the leading favorite of the day. For many years she was heard in various grand opera roles, each of which sustained her high reputation. Mrs. Patti has appeared in almost every civilized country and an idea of her enormous earnings that she received a total of nearly $400,000 for 24 concerts in which she appeared in the Argentine Republic in 1888. Baron Rolf Cederstrom, to whom Mme. Patti was married in 1899, is her third husband. In 1868 she was married to the Marquis de Caux, from whom she was afterward divorced. Her second husband was in 1898.

JUST A LINE ON GRAFT

The only thing we hear nowadays is graft, graft, graft.
Getting money without work is all the rage.
If you steal a million or two
Your money'll pull you through.
If you steal a loaf of bread
You get the cage.

The oil men, the beef men,
The ice men and the trusts
Are all a lot of grafters, so they say.
Some bank cashiers are crooked.
The bank's robbed 'till the busts,
Then you've got no money for a rainy day.

So who are we going to trust,
If we cannot trust the trusts?
It's hardly safe today to trust ourselves,
So I think I'll form a syndicate
To rob you all, then vindicate Myself by buying libraries for your shelves.

RHEUMATISM CANNOT BE CURED UNLESS URIC-O IS USED

Sudden Deaths, Heart Failure
And Paralysis Are Caused By Uric and Rheumatic Acids.

The disease whose cause is shrouded in mystery, the affliction that is said to be incurable, is commonly known as paralysis. Show us a person suffering with this disease, and you will find that at some time previous to the attack, the patient suffered from some form of Rheumatism. This dangerous disease should not be neglected, especially where there is a cure within such easy reach. We refer to Smith's Specific Uric-O, a harmless compound, free from alcohol and poison, and made to cure Rheumatism only. Uric-O acts with marvelous swiftness on the blood, muscles and kidneys, and cannot fail to remove all traces of poisonous Uric and Rheumatic acid from the system. Uric-O is not a cathartic, does not affect or distress the stomach, and is the only known liquid preparation that will relieve and permanently cure Rheumatism in its most distressing forms. We want all Rheumatic sufferers to test the merits of Uric-O, therefore by addressing the SMITH DRUG COMPANY, SYRACUSE, N. Y., a liberal size sample and circular will be sent free. Uric-O is sold by Druggists at $1.00 per bottle, or will be sent direct upon receipt of price.

Uric-O is sold and recommended in Portsmouth by Goodwin E. Philbrick.

AT MUSIC HALL

Alice-Sit-By-The-Fire With Mary Shaw Last Evening's Attraction

Original in theme and treatment, delightful in character, finely staged and splendidly acted, "Alice Sit by the Fire" gave the audience at Music Hall on Monday evening two hours of unalloyed pleasure.

This latest comedy from the pen of the versatile J. M. Barrie is from every point of view fully equal to any that he has written. In a purely literary sense, it is a gem and it has those qualities of what, for lack of a better term, we call "human interest" required in every play intended to appeal to the ordinary healthy man and woman.

To interpret, Mr. Barrie's comedy, Ernest Shipman has collected a troupe of player folk which is very nearly an all star company. There are nine characters in the play, and six of them are enacted by Mary Shaw, Kate Guyon, Virginia Kline, Frederic W. Sydney, Ernest Truax and Carlyle Moore.

In the leading role, Miss Shaw gave on Monday evening a characterization that lacked nothing of perfection. Competent critics have said that her work in the part is far superior to that of its creator in this country, Miss Ethel Barrymore, and certainly Miss Barrymore's most ardent admirer will not claim that she could portray such a role with the subtlety, faithfulness and artistic finish of Miss Shaw. Adding to an unusual charm of personality, a talent miles above the ordinary, Miss Shaw is an actress whose work it is a keen intellectual pleasure to watch.

As Amy, Miss Kline was wholly charming and Mr. Moore as Stephen Rollo could not have been improved upon. Miss Guyon, Mr. Truax and Mr. Sydney ably supported the principals.

The cast of characters:
Colonel Grey, Frederic W. Sydney
Amy Grey, Miss Virginia Kline
Cosmo Grey, Ernest Truax
Stephen Rollo, Carlyle Moore
Leonora Dunbar, Miss Kate Guyon
Nurse, Miss Vida Croly
Fanny, Miss Ellen Woodell
Richardson, Miss Jane Lloyd
Mrs. Grey, Miss Mary Shaw

Southern Wit.
In the early days of the civil war, says Mrs. D. G. Wright in "A Southern Girl in '61," many northern senators were especially violent in their denunciation of the seceding states, occasionally much to the amusement of their listeners. On one occasion a western senator ended a speech by declaring that were certain threatened events to occur, he would "leave this country and join some other nation. Even the Comanches he would prefer to this government in such a case." Senator Wigfall, of Texas, rose in answer, and stated in a tone of grave remonstrance that he trusted the senator would consider well before he took such a step, "for the Comanches had already suffered too much from contact with the whites."

STATE OF AFFAIRS

In House Of Representatives At Beginning Of Week

Up to the beginning of the present legislative week, 507 bills and joint resolutions had been introduced in the state House of Representatives.

The House had passed 107 bills up to this week and sixty-five had been killed. Thirty-five had passed both House and Senate and seventy-two others had been sent up from the House.

The printer had nine bills when business began this week, there were four special orders, four were ready to be forwarded today (Tuesday) and there was one bill on the table.

The committees began the week with bills under consideration as follows:

Agriculture, four; agricultural college, one; appropriations, twenty; banks, four; claims, three; education, nine; fisheries and game, thirty-seven; forestry, four; incorporations, seven; industrial school, one; insurance, ten; judiciary, 102; labor, four; military affairs, seven; normal school, one; public health, four; public improvements, one; railroads, eleven; revision of statutes, thirty-seven; roads, bridges and canals, four; state hospital, two; state prison, one; towns, four; ways and means, ten; Rochester delegation, one; Keene delegation, one; Concord delegation, one; Nashua delegation, seven; Somersworth delegation, one; Manchester delegation, one; Hillsborough county delegation, one.

FILLED MANY TIMES

Many Persons Here Benefited By The Home "Vegetable Prescription"

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well-known local pharmacy filled the "vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. Most of these folks naturally bought the ingredients only and mixed them at home. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain and misery, especially among the older population, who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, backache and particularly rheumatism.

Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he continues, that it would be a crime not to do so. It can not be repeated too often, and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription, of vegetable ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound, which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first-class drug store will sell this small amount of each ingredient, and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, it taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first.

FELL FROM CAR

And Big Tank Blocked Railroad Tracks for an Hour

A peculiar accident happened in the railroad yard on Monday, which resulted in no damage, but which caused a lot of hard work for a crew of railroad men.

Some large tanks for the Portsmouth Brewing Company were being moved by the switching crew on flat cars and in passing the blacksmith shop of the forge company one of the tanks swayed enough to catch the brick work of the building, causing it to roll off the car, to the ground. The tracks in the freight yard were blocked until a crew of twenty men, after pushing and pulling for over an hour, removed the tank to a safe place in the yard.

WEST DERRY DOGS MUST BE MUZZLED

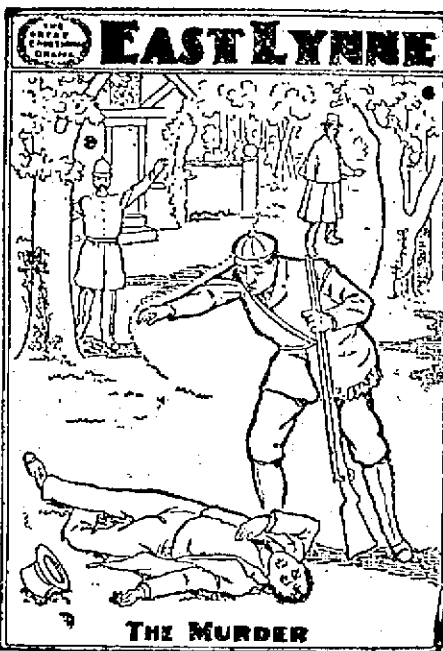

Examination by officials of the state board of health of the heads of two dogs which recently caused trouble in West Derry has disclosed the fact that both animals were afflicted with rabies. In consequence, the muzzling of all dogs in the town allowed to run at large will be ordered.

THE THEATRICAL FOLK

Fight Pictures Today

When those two conflicting thunderbolts, Tommy Burns and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien entered the ring at Los Angeles on Thanksgiving evening they were introduced by the champion, James J. Jeffries. The reception received by the latter showed the affection in which he is held by all lovers of true sport. By means of the most perfect motion pictures ever made, the two principals and Jeffries are introduced again to the public in life size and like-like relief, as are their seconds and all those spectators who were in the magic circle of the camera's light and the ovation of Los Angeles is repeated in every city where the films are shown. The local engagement will be at Music Hall this afternoon and evening and should prove just as successful as those of New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and other places where people were turned away.

A Society Event

Society will make the coming of Miss Clara Clemens, who is to be heard at Music Hall on Friday evening, an event of unusual importance. Miss Clemens, who is the daughter of Mark Twain, has a great many friends in this city who are deeply interested in her rise to artistic distinction, and the audience bids fair to be a most attractive one.

Miss Clemens's voice has been warmly praised by competent critics, and her work is said to be most artistic. Her return to this country after an extended period of study in England, France and Italy, was followed by her American debut, in which she acquitted herself with decided credit. Her assisting artist on the occasion of her local appearance will be Miss Marie Nichols, violinist.

Miss Clemens, who appears at Music Hall next Friday evening.

The remarkable prosperity and wonderful longevity attained by "East Lynne" can be explained only by the fact that the story the play unfolds is intensely human. Although numberless dramas have been written in imitation of this excellent play, not one of them reaches the depths of feeling or sounds the note of human appeal as truly as does this dramatic picture of the joys and sorrows of the beautiful, unfortunate Lady Isabel. To adequately portray the varying emotions of this complex character is a task requiring not only the charm of youthful beauty, but a marked degree of histrionic ability as well. The engagement at Music Hall is for Saturday afternoon and evening.

NEW WORLD MUMMIES

SOME IN MUSEUMS TAKEN FROM CLIFF DWELLER RUINS.

Remains of Aztecs and Toltecs Unearthed in Canyons of Arizona—Traces of Ancient Nobility.

Many persons who have an interest in archaeology will be surprised to know that not all the mummies to be seen in museums have been taken from faraway tombs in Egypt or other eastern lands. Well preserved mummies have occasionally been taken from the ruins of the cliff dwellers in the mountain canyons in Arizona, and also in New Mexico and southern California.

These mummies, states the Pittsburg Dispatch, though poor specimens of the mummifying art, are considered great treasures by scientists because they give the anthropologist a vague idea of the strange people who had the earliest civilization on the American continent. The best of them are almost entirely ignorant of who the Aztecs and Toltecs were, how they looked and lived, and why they have been so entirely obliterated from the face of the earth.

The reason for this ignorance is found in the fact that no satisfactory remains of the dead Aztecs have been found. These people were cremationists, and they probably burned household effects with the dead, leaving little or nothing for the scientist to build a theory upon.

Frequently a party of explorers in the valley of Arizona will come upon sealed jars of burned bone dust. But the mummy which was found by two gold mine prospectors in a lonely canyon along the Gila river, in the heart of the country once occupied by the Aztecs and Toltecs, has excited much attention. The hollow in the rocks was about seven feet deep and four feet high. It was evidently made for the purpose of burial of the body found there, for no other mummy has ever been found within 100 miles of this lonely sepulcher.

At the rear of the cave the miners found what appeared to be a chamber in the solid granite wall. The mouth of the chamber was sealed. When the cement-like substance was broken away and a flat stone lifted it was found that a human mummy was within. There was a smell of resin and balsam when the miners raised the little body which had lain there for 500, perhaps 700 years. The body was evidently that of a child, the offspring of prehistoric royalty. When the coverings had been removed it was found that the body was that of a girl about five years of age.

There was no doubt that she was of noble family and that her costly and elaborate burial, instead of cremation, had been for some extraordinary reason. Wrappings that filled five bushel baskets were unwound from the remains. As the hands were removed peanuts and mesquite beans rolled out. Both were in as good state of preservation as if they had been placed there a few months before. A child's plaything, a curious bone affair, was found placed between the arms. The little shrouded hands were clasped about bits of mesquite wood, and a thick mass of raven black hair, much finer than that of an Indian, covered the head. The legs were drawn up in the position of a child creeping. The finger nails were perfect and the teeth intact. The nose, ears and eyes were gone and the skin was broken on the right knee and on one of the wrists, exposing bones, sinews and dried flesh.

So fine a mummy had probably never been found before in the valleys of Arizona. It has been photographed more than 100 times. Many scientists and archaeologists have traveled long distances to see it, and say it is the most interesting and instructive of all things found in that part of the country in a decade. It has been made a gift to the Smithsonian Institution.

PASSENGER'S CLEVER RUSE

Helped a Lady in Distress and Got Himself Nicely Out of the Situation.

As a train was approaching Sheffield a man seated in one of the compartments noticed a lady looking troubled, and asked her what was the matter.

"I've lost my ticket, and they will charge me with fraud," said the lady. "Oh, never mind, I'll work a little dodge with the guard," and he got his own ticket out of his pocket and tore the corner off and gave the ticket to the lady.

"When the train arrived at Sheffield the guard collected all the tickets but one.

"Where's your ticket, sir?" he asked of the gentleman.

"I gave it to you."

"No you didn't," replied the guard. "I shall have to call the station master."

When the station master arrived he said:

"Where is your ticket, young man?"

"I gave it to the guard. See if he has a ticket with a 'corner torn off,' replied the sharp man.

On searching, of course the guard found it.

"Now," said the young man, "see if this fits it," as he gave him the corner of the ticket.

A look of surprise came over the guard's face, and he crept out of the carriage dumfounded.

Nursing Mothers and OVER-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by overwork, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in the most potent, invigorating, restorative, strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and to render the ordeal comparatively easy and painless.

It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, ulceration, prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion, or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts, will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and, generally, a permanent cure, by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients are printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula, knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of all woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and Antiseptic Suppositories may also be used with great advantage conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription" in all cases of ulceration, and in pelvic catarrh. They cost only 25 cents a box each, at drug stores or, sent by mail, post-paid on receipt of price in stamps by Dr. Pierce whose address is given below.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

FOR TEN YEARS

We have been engaged in the Monumental Granite and Marble business in the cities of Dover and later in Rochester, N. H., and Waterbury, Conn. During this time we have set considerable monuments in Portsmouth and surrounding towns. Now that we have located in Portsmouth, we shall endeavor to build up the same large volume of trade here that we have set our other office, by the same business principles, viz.: High Grade Work at Reasonable Price.

Call and inspect our stock. We are now getting special prices.

THE LITTLE MANDARIN

By AMITY POINT

(Copyright, by Joseph D. Bowles.)

Jermayne was not by any means a bad sort of fellow. He had never been intended for business; he had been too highly educated, and at his father's death he found himself in the position of a well-educated, polished and wealthy individual with nothing in which he could exercise the inherited family shrewdness.

One particular day, Jermayne came to the stupendous conclusion that he was in love. "This conclusion was arrived at with all the deliberation care which his cautious instincts necessitated; it was final with him, and it unrequited would involve a solitary existence for the rest of his days.

The favored lady was not beautiful in form or feature, neither was she talented or particularly clever, and she was decidedly poor in the world's goods; but she was a general favorite, being gifted with a sweetness of manner and an amiability altogether charming; particularly so to Jermayne.

It was, he analysed, so obviously to her advantage to accept him, yet he did not desire her to marry him for such comforts as he, with his wealth, could give her; what he wanted was proof that she was absolutely disinterested; that it would be for love, and love only, that she would accept him.

Late one winter afternoon Jermayne was dressing preparatory to going out for the evening. In the course of that evening he fully intended to place his future at her disposal. He had secured tickets for a certain annual charity festival, and in the course of an hour of two he would meet her there.

Jermayne was a man whose tastes were unusual; he was fond of the quaint and bizarre in art, and his rooms abounded in ornaments of curious origin and strange workmanship. Among these was a small figure of a Chinese minko, the figure of a mandarin with a nodding head; a fantastic image with a solemn face and high bald head that moved when touched and kept moving for some minutes afterwards.

Exactly what the figure had to do with after events Jermayne never knew; it was a strange circumstance, however, that as he held it in his hand he expressed the wish which was so amply granted.

"If," he said, "I could read past lives and present thoughts but for one day I should know whom I could trust and whom to avoid."

He placed the little image back on the shelf, and the figure commenced nodding at him. He had placed the mandarin in front of the lady's photograph, and her face seemed to smile at him; one of those bewitching smiles which had sealed Jermayne's affections. "Then a haze seemed to spread throughout the room."

"My nerves must be out of order," he said to himself, as he proceeded with his toilet. He paused before the mirror to put a finishing adjustment to his tie, when suddenly, with a gasp, he sank into a chair, and it came to him that his wish had been granted. Just as in a dream incidents flash past one, which in waking hours would take days to accomplish, so he, in that brief moment had seen the mean actions of his past life; the childish deeds of his youth, followed by a panorama of petty meannesses. He became at once disenchanted with himself as he sat in his chair, all his little conceits gone from him.

With an effort he recovered himself and finished dressing, keeping away from the accusing mirror.

He pulled himself together, took a sip of brandy, and went out into the street.

At the second lamp he passed a man, a personal friend, and a good fellow, well known for his charitable and benevolent nature. Jermayne avoided him ever afterwards.

He moved on rapidly with a sickening sense of what was to come.

He came next to a house where a mail was being held. A lady was leaving her carriage. As he paused for her to pass him, she raised her eyes to his, and he knew her to be a lady of note, but, alas! he recalled again at what was revealed to him.

Jermayne paused, turned round, and hurried home, looking neither to right nor to left of him, avoiding the gaze of all passers. He hastened to his rooms and flung himself on a couch. He dared not face his sweetheart that night. This housekeeper heard him looked in and then went out and called a doctor. The doctor was a young man with a future before him; he was a friend of Jermayne's, and came round at once.

"Hello, Jermayne, what's the matter? Let's have a look at you."

He felt his patient's pulse and passed his hand over his forehead. Jermayne keeping his eyes closed all the time.

"You seem to have had a shock of some kind. What is it? Come, you may as well tell me."

Jermayne, in disjointed sentences, told his story.

"Nonsense, my dear fellow, you've been overdoing it; that's what is wrong. What have you been reading lately? You had better go to bed, and I'll send in something for you."

The doctor glanced at the metal figure. It needed incessantly.

"Queer little beast, that mandarin of yours, Jermayne, but if it's going to affect you like this you had better bury the thing. Good-bye, old man, and—can I take a message to Miss Blaine for you? I'm going on to the dance after I have ordered your little dose. Shall I tell her you'll be round to see her tomorrow evening after the twenty-four hours are over? Ha! Ha! Can't trust yourself to see her just at present? Stuff and nonsense, old man, but good-bye; I'll pop in on my way back."

To himself he said as he went down the stairs:

"I don't half like this. A sensible, steady fellow, too."

Dr. Winston sent a dose and went on his way to the dance. Almost the first person he met after entering the room was Miss Blaine. He stopped her in his off-hand way.

"Miss Blaine, you may as well give me all of Jermayne's dances tonight. I've just seen him, professionally. He asked me to let you know."

In answer to the girl's perceptible loss of color and evident anxiety he added:

"Don't worry, he'll be all right tomorrow and he said he would see you in the evening. Some mental shock; nothing of importance, really, thank."

—and he handed her back her card. —

Amy Blaine was scarcely herself that evening; to smile was an effort, and once, they had concluded a dance, the doctor remarked to her:

"Miss Blaine, I'm inclined to think Jermayne a very lucky man. I wish some one would take the trouble to worry over me."

"I don't quite understand you, Doctor."

"Well, you look a bit fagged, and had better leave early. I am going
